It is stated that Senator Sprague has secured to his family $1,000,000 by gift to his children.

Railroads in Trouble.

The Treasurer of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad says in a circular to bondholders that the only way to re-establish the credit of the Company is to refund the entire floating debt in income bonds, to be paid out of the net earnings of the road. The Company has authorized the issue of [illegible] per cent income bonds of twenty years to the amount of $1,000,000, to be used in retiring the floating debt and funding the interest on the new bonds.

The Kansas Pacific, St. Louis and Southwestern and Central branch of the Union Pacific failed to pay their semi-annual coupons on Saturday. The Kansas Pacific issue a circular in which the Directors say that the $20,000,000 in securities which was to have been used as a bonus to raise the necessary [illegible]ns to meet the interest on the bonded debt and to liquidate a quarter part of the floating debt was of no avail. The money could not be procured during the present pressure. They make a statement of the resources of the road and expenses in confidence that the floating debt can be extinguished in about two years by the earnings of the road, and if the company should be successful in placing their securities now in hand, consisting of first mortgage bonds upon branch lines and real estate securities, the floating debt could be paid at once, and the earnings of the road used for the speedy payment of coupons. The company therefore invites holders of bonds to appoint a committee to confer with the Board of Directors personally or by letter, to examine and decide upon the wisest course to be pursued in the premises.

SCOTCH CAPITALISTS LOOKING TO OREGON

In the Dundee Advertiser of October 8th we find the annexed, which will be of interest to all who have the development of this Northwest coast at heart:

A meeting was held in Dundee to-day of the shareholders of the Oregon and Washington Trust Investment Co., considerably more than the capital required by which at the outset of its operations has been privately subscribed in Dundee and the district. This Company has been modeled very much after the successful Mauritius Land Credit Company (established by the late Mr J. A. Guthrie of Craigie), the Australian Mortgage, the New Zealand Trust and similar Companies. The main object is the making advances of money upon first class mortgages upon heritable property in the State of Oregon and in the Territory of Washington in the United States, the immense resources of which in grain, wool, timber, deposits of coal and iron, fisheries, &c., are being rapidly opened up by railway and river communication, and there is consequently a steady demand for money for the erection of buildings and the improvement of land at much higher rates of interest than prevail in this country. It is understood that the loans made by the Company will only be on occupied, productive and salable property, to the extent of one-half of its value, so that the shareholders will have abundant security. It is probable that hereafter the Company will take a limited amount of money on debentures, but the intention is to proceed gradually and cautiously, in accordance with the recommendations of the Hon. A. G. Cook, who will be the agent of the Company in Oregon, and who bears a high character for professional ability and experience and personal judgment and integrity. The Earl of Airlie having taken a leading interest in the formation of the Company, the shareholders yesterday unanimously resolved to request him to act as Chairman of the Directors, and the following gentlemen were also unanimously appointed on the Board: Messrs. Wm. Lowson of Balthayock; Thomas Cox of Maulesden; Thomas Bell of Belmont; Thomas Couper, Dudhope House; James Neish of The Laws, and John Leng, Kinbrae.

OREGON CONGRESSIONAL CONTEST.—On the 13th an election for Congressman was held in Oregon to fill the vacancy caused by the death of J. G. Wilson. Hiram Smith, Republican, and J. W. Nesmith, Democrat, were the contestants. Nesmith was elected by a majority in the State of probably 1,000. The success of the Democrats was won by Republican division. The Republican convention, imposed upon by designing men, adopted a resolution endorsing Hipple-Mitchell, the polygamous U. S. Senator, whose private record is notoriously bad. As a result it was found impossible to persuade any man of prominence in the party to accept the Congressional nomination. Smith was the fourth choice, the three other gentlemen named for the candidature having successively declined the honor. Several of the Republican journals—at the head of which was the OREGONIAN, the leading paper of the State—refused to sustain Smith, and as a matter of course he was defeated. Under the circumstances we do not mourn the result.—Helena Montana Herald, Oct 23.

THE STOKES TRIAL.

THE PRISONER ON THE STAND.

My name is Edward S. Stokes. I am the prisoner in this case; my age is thirty-six. I was born in Philadelphia; up to the period of my arrest I was in the oil business in Brooklyn. I mean my arrest on January 8, 1871, on a charge of embezzlement. I became acquainted with Mr Fisk in July 1869; at that time I was spending the time in Saratoga; he sent a dispatch for me and I came to New York and entered into business with him. I remained in business with him until I was removed from my position as an officer of the company. It was stipulated in the lease of the oil company that the capacities of its refinery should be doubled on my taking a thirty per cent interest instead of a half interest, I believe.

THAT HEAVY CLAIMS AGAINST FISK.

Which I thought stood good in law. I was examined as a witness the morning of the homicide in a prosecution against Fisk at Judge Bixby's Court for libel on Mrs Mansfield. I saw Fisk three weeks previously at Niblo's, before the 6th of January. I heard that he was sick, and I was not aware on that date that he had been out of his house. I had no information of it whatever. He failed to attend Judge Bixby's Court. I left the Court with

JOHN McKEON AND COLONEL FELLOWS.

Mrs Mansfield departed in a carriage about the same time. I went with those two gentlemen to Delmonico's, corner of Chamber street, and remained there a brief time taking some oysters and ale; after that I had a conversation with Mr Sprague, Mayor of Utica; then went to Mr Rufus F. Andrews' office and told him that I was afraid if I went to Rhode Island on Monday following he might say I ran away and get a requisition, and so disgrace me in some way. Mr Andrews replied I need have no apprehension; that the indictment had been dismissed and no proceedings were pending. I was afraid Fisk might do something, and I went to Mr Bixby and got permission from him to go to Providence; the appeal case was to come off in Providence on Tuesday, 9th. I went from his office to the carriage stand, corner Chambers street, and drove to the Hoffman House to prepare for my going. I found in the box of the telegraph office a dispatch which I had thought I had sent the day before to Mr Doty, one of the judges in the trotting affair, one of my most important witnesses; had directed it to Edenville instead of Edentown; the clerk had marked it "no such station." I spoke to Mr Cottrell, a lawyer, and the telegraph clerk about it, and the result was that I ascertained there was such a station and the clerk sent it. It was to the effect to come on to New York at once on business of importance. I had all my papers ready except the original paper to go before the Court of Appeals, and it was in a box at Mrs Mansfield's. I drove off to her residence, and was about getting out of the coupe when I looked up and observed the blinds closed. I recollected that she had been ill, and I directed the driver to take me to the Grand Central Hotel; there was nothing singular about this direction, as what I meant was to set me down about there. I told him to drive me down Seventh avenue, where there was a wooden pavement. I did not see Fisk's carriage, nor did I know he was out that day. I never saw the Morses to my knowledge after getting out of the coupe. I went into Dodge & Chamberlain's, saw Mr Smith and Mr Ingraham there; inquired from Smith the whereabouts of Mr Ferris; then I crossed to the east side of the street to find Ferris, where he used to be on the corner. I met Mr Bailey at the corner of Great Jones street. I asked him to accompany me to get

TICKETS FOR THE BLACK CROOK.

He walked down with me, and as we were passing the Grand Central I noticed a lady in the parlor No 207; she bowed to me, and I recognized her of course; I thought she was a lady I met in Saratoga, and so said to Mr Bailey. I said I thought I should go over to her. I finished the conversation with him and asked him to wait, but he refused; then I crossed over and went in; on recognizing the lady I lifted my hat.

The prisoner was here directed to take the rod and point out on the diagram all his movements.

He said that he ascended the stairs; he had never been there before. He saw that he was MISTAKEN IN THE LADY.

And she came out of the parlor and went up to the third floor; he then turned toward the ladies' staircase to go out. He had on an overcoat and dogskin gloves lined with wool, and I carried a cane. He had no expectation of seeing Fisk; did not go into any room and look out. As I was descending the stairs I saw

FISK COMING UP WITH A RUSH

And a pistol in his hand; he cocked it and I cried "Don't shoot." I jumped out of the line of his fire to the left, took out my pistol and fired two shots with my gloves on.

I BELIEVED MY LIFE TO BE IN DANGER.

I knew it was. I saw the pistol plainly. It was not my intention to take his life. It was customary for me to carry the pistol in my outside overcoat pocket when I wore one. When I was going inside the private entrance I saw the boy Redmond, but did not see Thomas Hart, and his evidence is utterly false; he was not there when I came back to the head of the stairs; my reason for going back quick was to get out of the line of Fisk's fire; my reason for going toward parlor No 7 was because I thought it was a continuation of the hall. I did not retreat up stairs when I saw Fisk, because I hadn't a chance. The first person I met was Mr Hill. I told him a man had been shot; the next was the Frenchman De Corley, whom I had as a witness on the first trial, and who has mysteriously disappeared.

Mr Phelps said he would like to learn what the witness knows about that.

Stokes—I tried to find him as a witness and couldn't. I did not go into parlor No 207 or throw anything into it. I dropped my pistol right on the stairs where I was; after speaking to De Corley I went down the main stairs and told some people there was a man hurt; to get a doctor. When I got down to the hall below stairs a man said "Here they want you"; I turned to him and he took hold of me, and they all laid their hands on me, and I told them not to do so; I said I was not going to run away; then they took their hands off; three or four searched me, and I objected to so many people putting their hands in my pocket. Mr [illegible] came up and then took me up stairs, and I was taken from one room to another, and at last into one where Colonel Fisk was sitting up with his coat off and no one supporting him; the officer said nothing; [illegible] Fisk, and [illegible] "Do you know this man?" and he lowered his head and said "Mr Stokes"; the officer said "Come," and I was taken away on the instant. Fisk did not say "that is the man that shot me; take him away." I did not then know he was wounded in the abdomen, but he looked bad, though he was sitting upright.

At this point counsel offered to prove that on his first interview after the shooting, with his father and his counsel, Mr McKeon, he told them that Fisk had a pistol drawn, and that the shooting was done in self defense. Evidence excluded and exception taken.

Q. Did he say anything to you about [illegible] reaching you?

District Attorney—Don't put the words into his mouth.

The Court—The comments of the counsel do not avail.

Mr Tremain—Then he should not attempt to lecture me.

Judge—He may object, but you need not reply.

Mr Tremain—But however nature is weak.

Judge—And it is sometimes very strong. Go on.

Stokes then related the statements which were made to him by the woman Mansfield and Mrs Williams as to threats against his life uttered by Fisk. He heard of such threats from different sources for months; he was under constant apprehensions, and had to give up the rooms at the Worth House at a loss of $600 in consequence of the way the rooms faced; three men were on his track every day.

I knew, continued witness, Fisk was unscrupulous, desperate and revengeful; I had made an arrangement with Amasa Sprague, President of the Trotting Association, to be in Providence June 9th, and Horace Bloodgood told me he would engage rooms for me at the hotel. I never told Mr Parker that Fisk was a damned black mailer and I would shoot him. I never went down a side street for something except in a covered carriage. In October, 1870, we had a new reconciliation, and he recommenced quarreling with me within a week; then we had another reconciliation and quarrel.

The witness went on—At the reconciliation in October 1870 it was in Mrs Mansfield's back parlor; he told me he had made arrangements to but that he would get it dismissed; that it was dangerous to cross his path; sometimes he said "We stretch out our hands and they wither;" he said when he used to see me his blood boiled, but now he would make it all right.

This concluded the prisoner's direct examination, and the Court adjourned.

THE LAW OF LIBEL.

AN EDITOR COMMITTED FOR CONTEMPT.

From the New York Herald of Oct. 24th, we take the annexed:

The attention of Judge Gilbert was again called yesterday morning to the case of Mr W. F. G. Shanks, a New York newspaper editor, who was before him the previous day for refusing to disclose to the Grand Jury the name of the author of an article entitled "The Brooklyn Ring's Method," which was published last August in the paper to which he is attached. Mr Shanks continued to refuse to disclose the name of the writer, and District Attorney Britton therefore moved that he be committed for contempt of Court, Judge Gilbert on Tuesday having ordered him to inform the Grand Jury.

Judge Gilbert, addressing Mr Shanks, said that the punishment in his case would be imprisonment until he obeyed the order of the Court. While it was very commendable for a gentleman in his position to preserve fidelity to the rules of his office, yet he must not be allowed to pervert the ends of justice. There was no rule of law that allowed editors to make rules to conceal the authorship of an article when the same is required by the Grand Jury. It was an obstruction in the way of justice that could not be tolerated.

Mr Shanks pleaded that he was entitled to be heard by counsel, but had had no opportunity to confer with his counsel.

Judge Gilbert replied that if the counsel were present he should be glad to hear him. The Judge, however, did not think it was right to allow a contumacious witness to defy the order of the Court.

The editor disclaimed any desire to appear as contumacious. This was a proceeding to indict his paper or some one on it, and as he was a part of the paper he thought he was right in refusing to answer, as it would tend to indict himself.

Judge Gilbert directed that an order be entered sending him to jail until he answered the question as to the author of the article.

The editor protested that he was a witness on the Stokes trial that day, and asked the Judge that he would so order that he (Shanks) should not appear as having a contempt for the New York Court.

Judge Gilbert said there were rules by which witnesses might be taken out of jail. There was no rule made by private bodies that could interfere with the law.

Mr Shanks said he knew no law but he knew his business to his employer, and proposed to do it.

Counselor F. F. Wood, a friend of Shanks, coming in court, appeared for him and suggested that he should be given until this morning to answer the charge. The counsel contended that the newspaper being a corporation, it was not necessary for the grand jury to know the name of any writer for the maintenance of law and order. The corporation could be indicted.

Judge Gilbert held that the man who writes a libellous article is just as liable as the paper that publishes it. The man that carried it to the paper is liable. That furnished no immunity to the writers. The Judge said he was clear on the question, and did not want to hear any argument.

Mr Shanks went to jail and now occupies the debtors' room in that institution.

Commenting on this proceeding, the New York Times asks the Tribune to remember that on certain occasions when other papers were similarly situated the Tribune demanded a vigorous application of that law it now finds so inapplicable. After citing one or two of these occasions the Times says:

Again, in the Miller insurance investigation, an editor of this paper declined to give the names of writers of articles, but offered to take the full responsibility of them upon himself. The Tribune abused the editor for this, and said that it was his duty to have given up the names of his contributors. We warned it at the time that the day might come when it would be forced to take a different view of this question. That day has arrived. Its own view of the law has been accepted, and now we shall hear from it a howl about the infringement upon the liberty of the press, etc. Doctors must sometimes take their own medicine. We have not changed our opinions as to the duties and responsibilities of editors—but we should certainly never dream of allowing one of our subordinates to be punished for a fault not his own. The responsible editor of the Tribune should not skulk behind the door while his assistant goes to jail. If he were right in asserting that it was our duty to reveal the names of our contributors, and we confess we would rather go to prison than do it as a general rule, what right has he to lay down a different law for himself? Gross libels have been published in the Tribune, and the editor evades responsibility for them and puts forward his subordinates to take the consequences. Is this honorable or just? Is this a course which the "Scholar in Politics" ought to pursue?

THE POLARIS INVESTIGATION.—A Washington dispatch of October 2d says: The Polaris investigation was concluded yesterday, and the persons who have been examined, with the exception of Dr Bessels, will soon leave for the North. Mr Reid, the United States Consul at Dundee, reports that Messrs. Bryan, Booth and Mauch of the Polaris had reached his consulate and would leave on Friday by the [illegible] from Glasgow for the United States. Dr Bessels will remain in Washington until the new chart of the Polar Ocean shall be completed, and will be temporarily attached to the Smithsonian Institution.

On Saturday morning Maj. Eggleston, paymaster, and his clerk, Mr Clyde, left Walla Walla for Colville and Lapwai for the purpose of paying off the troops stationed there.

OREGON.

Houses in Baker city rent for $40 to $100 per month, and are scarce at that.

The P. W. W. Express brought over to Walla Walla on Monday last $4,000 worth of Grand Ronde gold dust.

There are three Farmers' Granges in Umatilla county—one at Weston, one at Wild Horse and one at Milton.

The salmon fishery at the Dalles is attracting considerable attention in the Eastern States. Recently Mr Evans has received several letters from parties engaged in putting up meats and fish, inquiring into the possibility of leasing or purchasing the right to pack and preserve salmon at his place.

Six years ago one James East killed a man by the name of Scott, who then resided on Butter creek, Umatilla county, Oregon. He made his escape, but was indicted by the grand jury, which indictment still stands against him. Imagine the surprise of the Pendletonians, when on Monday morning last week he returned on the stage to Pendleton and surrendered to the proper authorities.

A discovery has recently been made at Conner creek, Baker county, by Mr Toland, of a gold quartz ledge, situated within a mile of Palmer & Co.'s mill, which promises well. The vein is full three feet in width, and shows free gold. It is located by Wood & Toland. They have uncovered it for about fifty feet in length, and it shows two well defined walls, and has every appearance of being a valuable lead.

A letter from Baker City in the Spirit of the West says: Mining in many places has been suspended for the season, while in other mines the extreme cold weather prevents cleaning up—the bed rock being frozen. The quartz mills are kept constantly running with good results at the following places: Virtue Ledge, Gem City and Hogum. There is being erected at Conner Creek, also at Rye Valley, five-stamp mills. These mills have the prospects for a bright future—they being located in rich mining camps—some assaying as high as $900 per ton. The weather is extremely cold; the river is frozen over with ice one and a half inches thick, and as a consequence the boys are having grand skating carnivals. During the past week we have had two disastrous fires. On Thursday, near Pocahontas, a Mr David Kelly lost a large barn and all its contents, harness, grain, hay, etc. And on Friday, just east of this city, Mr Finlayson's barn, correll, sheds, a valuable stallion, and a thousand or more bushels of grain were entirely destroyed.

DEPARTMENT NEWS.

[From the Washington Chronicle of Oct. 24th.]

The receipts of conscience money in 1872 were $2,997 42; in 1873, $25,551 21. On July 1, 1873, the fund amounted to $154,965 98.

James Seeley, United States Attorney for the District of Nevada, has tendered his resignation. It is understood it will be accepted.

The whole number of postoffices established since June 30, 1873, has been 634; discontinued, 264; increase, 360. The whole number in the United States October 18, 1873, is 33,604.

General and Mrs Leggett, at the request of the society of which their son Mortimer was a member, left for Ithaca, New York, last evening to examine into the truth or falsity of the reports concerning the cause of his untimely death.

General Eaton, Commissioner of Education, will arrive in Washington the latter part of the present week from Europe. During his absence abroad the General has made it a point to visit the different institutions of learning in Germany, and has accumulated a great deal of useful information which will materially aid him in his duties as Commissioner of Education in his own country.

The Bureau of Education has received the last number of Ueber Land und Meer, a weekly illustrated journal published at Stuttgard, Germany. It contains an admirably executed two page engraving of Kaulbach's great work exhibited at Vienna, entitled "Nero." It represents the moment when the effeminate emperor, surrounded by fawning courtiers and depraved women, declares himself a god. In the foreground, Christians are being crucified and otherwise horribly tortured, and the contrast between the rest of the sensual court and the pious devotion of the Christians is exceedingly powerful.

THE JAMES RIVER CANAL.—A Richmond dispatch of October 22d says: Senators Conkling, Windom, Sherman, Norwood and Davis, the United States Senate Committee on Inland Transportation, arrived here yesterday. After inspecting the first level of the James River and Kanawha Canal and the ship locks, the committee examined a number of witnesses, including Mr Bocock Craighill, Chief Engineer of the James River Improvement, and Col Whitcomb, Chief Engineer of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad; Gen. Haupt, former Engineer of the Hoosac Tunnel, and now general manager of the air line between Richmond and Atlanta. The testimony taken was chiefly with the view of ascertaining the practicability of completing the James River and Kanawha Canal and the construction of a tunnel for the canal a length of nine miles. The opinion of the engineers was to the effect that, the means being supplied for the work, the tunnel and canal would be completed within five years, at a cost of $14,000,000.

AN ACCOMPLISHED SAVAGE.—A Washington dispatch of October 22d says: A delegation of eight Ute chiefs and one Apache from Colorado Territory had a pow wow with the Commissioner of Indian Affairs this morning, in regard mainly to the relocation of their agency, rendered necessary by the recent cession of a part of their reservation. A chief named Ouray was the principal speaker, and he attracted much attention by reason both of his costume, which comprised fashionable boots, stock and scarf pin, and also of his manner, which was smiling and jolly, in striking contrast to the imperturbability of all his companions. He spoke in excellent Spanish. Commissioner Smith had a free talk with Ouray and others, and promised to give their requests due consideration.

GOLDSMITH MAID TRYING TO BEAT HER OWN TIME.—A Chicago dispatch of October 22d says:

The famous trotting mare Goldsmith Maid undertook this afternoon at Dexter Park to beat her own time, the fastest on record. The struggle was witnessed by [illegible],000 people. To encourage the Maid a running competitor was provided. The wind was blowing heavily from the south, and up the backstretch she had it full in her face. She failed to beat her record, but her last two heats were trotted in 2:16 and 17¼ respectively. These are equal to the fastest two consecutive heats on record, and are the fastest second and third heats ever trotted.

EXPELLED FROM THE STOCK EXCHANGE.—A New York dispatch of October 23d says: Edward Haight, Jr., a member of the firm of Haight & Co., of Wall street, representing the Company in the Stock Exchange, was expelled this morning by the unanimous vote of the governing committee. The reason of the expulsion was because his father, Edward Haight, Sr., overdrew his account $400,000 in the Bank of Commonwealth, paid part of it, and failed to pay the remainder, resulting in the ruin of the bank.

EXTENSION ON A COFFIN PATENT REFUSED.—The Washington Chronicle of Oct. 24th says:

The application of Charles R. Long, of Louisville, Ky., and Hiram O. Cannon, of New Albany, Ind., administrators of John R. Cannon (deceased,) for an extension of the patent of the latter for construction of glass coffins, was refused by the Commissioner yesterday.

THE TERRITORIES.

Dawson Bros., of Laramie, have failed for a large amount.

There are now eight Farmers' Granges in Walla Walla valley.

Grace Greenwood is giving readings and entertainments in Southern Colorado.

On Friday the Belcher sent $145,000 worth of bullion to the Bank of California.

A Cannon of distress is heard from Salt Lake City. It is George Q. bewailing the decline of Mormondom.

Anna Dickinson's pants are preserved in the Denver museum, and the young men there about pant to see 'em.

The last assessment of the capital stock of the Seattle Gas Company is now due. The gas works will be in operation in a few days.

There will be a Fancy Fair for the benefit of the orphans under the care of the Sisters of Charity in Olympia, this week, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

A financial sensation has been created in Salt Lake City by a revelation in the city journals that the Zion Co-operative Mercantile Institute has outstanding liabilities far in excess of its assets.

On Monday, the 27th of October, in the afternoon, a house occupied by three men—Craighton, Byrd and Collins—caught fire on Ketron Island, W. T., and was burned to the ground. Loss not ascertained.

Corinne is to have another railroad, that is, the Utah Northern is to be extended to Corinne from Ogden, and the same is to be completed within six weeks from this time. The Reporter man is greatly rejoiced thereat.

Wednesday of last week Mr Charles H. Blake arrived at Steilacoom from Port Townsend with an insane man, Martin P[illegible]ett, who was taken to the Asylum. He is a native of Sweden. Religious questions caused his insanity.

Steilacoom is improving, repairing and new building day by day. Lumber is constantly being hauled from the yard for building purposes, and every carpenter in the place has his hands full. Not one house is unoccupied, says the Express.

During the past few days numerous storms have prevailed south of Montana, in Idaho and Utah. The telegraph wires, of course, went down, and snow blockaded the Corinne road to the extent of rendering wagon transportation next to impossible.

Last Saturday ten or twelve families arrived in Walla Walla, where they will stop for the winter at least. They are from Montana and Oregon. Some of them will seek homes in the Palouse and Spokane countries, while others will go into business at Walla Walla.

The Walla Walla Spirit is informed that Mr. R. G. Newland, of Dayton precinct, threshed from 14 acres 1,100 bushels of wheat, or an average of seventy bushels and six-sevenths to the acre; also that a Mr. Pettijohn, living at the foot or on the side of the mountains near Dayton, threshed from four acres of wheat 484 bushels, or an average of 121 bushels per acre.

The Boise Statesman of October 30th says: "A shooting affray took place at Rocky Bar Sunday last, in which a man named James McKnight was shot by James Maxon. An old grudge existed between the parties, and Maxon having gone to the Bar a few weeks ago, where McKnight lived, the quarrel terminated as above. Maxon left immediately after the shooting, and came to this city. He claims to have acted in self-defense, and does not know whether he killed McKnight or not."

The Tacoma Tribune says: "Three thousand dollars are asked by the people of Seattle for the repair of the University building, and a Joint Committee of eight members of the Legislature have just been down to that town to see about the virtue of appropriating it. From what we learned of the Committee to-day, the money will be forthcoming only upon one condition being fulfilled, that is, upon the Territory receiving an out-and-out, unconditional and irrevocable title to the land on which the buildings stand."

At Fairplay, Colorado, recently, Messrs. Graves and Walker were indulging in a little game of poker. Before the "draw" Mr Graves held a "king full," and Mr Walker rejoiced in three aces, but after that interesting ceremony Walker exhibited four aces, and claimed the stakes, whereupon Graves drew a six-shooter, and reckoned his hand was the best. Walker immediately supplemented his four aces with a bowie-knife, and the dispute was settled to the perfect satisfaction of the outsiders. There was enough in the "pot" to purchase two handsome coffins, and the next day both gentlemen took up permanent residences side by side, in the beautiful cemetery that reflects so much credit upon Fairplay.

Mr Ben Anderson, of Boise City, and well known throughout the Territory, met with a terrible accident on the morning of the 27th ult. While at work in the butcher shop of Gumbert & Peterson, between 8 and 9 o'clock in the morning, standing on a step-ladder nailing up a partition board, his right foot on the second step of the ladder and his left on the third, the cord that held the standard or support of the ladder to the steps broke, and the latter suddenly spread out. Anderson's left foot slipped forward and his toe caught under the side board of the ladder, his ankle resting across the step. He and the ladder both fell flat on the floor with his foot fast in this position, which wrenched his ankle out of joint and broke the leg just above the ankle. The large bone protruded through the flesh nearly two inches, and the smaller bone the doctors say is badly shivered and broken in four places.

Any man who can persuade himself that romance and hard-shell Democracy are not enemies from the very nature of things, is privileged to believe the following:

William Allen, the Democratic Governor-elect of Ohio, perhaps went to that State about 1825, a poor boy. In 1830 he fell in love with the daughter of a wealthy old Federalist, but the old man could not think of being his father-in-law. In 1832 the old gentleman was nominated for Congress in a strongly Federal district, but the youngster, who was only twenty five, took the stump against him and fought him bitterly. Allen was elected by just one majority. But the old man wouldn't give him the girl. He forced her to marry another man, and Allen had to wait two years. She became a widow, but now she is his better half.

That looks very much like a campaign slander on Bill Allen.

The Bulletin says it will make no comment on the case of Dr Glass. Out of respect to Senator Mitchell's feelings, perhaps.

TUESDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 4, 1873.

FOREIGN CAPITAL IN OREGON.

In another column will be found an article taken from the Dundee (Scotland) Advertiser, in which mention is made of the Oregon and Washington Trust Investment Company, a corporation organized by Hon. A. G. Cook, formerly of Vancouver, W. T., among the rich capitalists of Dundee. The object of the Company, as we find it stated in the commercial column of the Advertiser, is "the making advances of money upon first-class mortgages on heritable property in the State of Oregon and in the Territory of Washington." It is also said that hereafter the Company will take a limited amount of money on debentures.

It is a matter upon which the people of this northwest coast can congratulate each other, that one of our own citizens has succeeded in directing the attention of capitalists in the Old World to this distant land, teeming with most fertile resources and awaiting the joint efforts of intelligent capital and earnest labor to yield rich returns to both. American capital has always proven inadequte to the gigantic [illegible] of building up our Territories into S[illegible]. The field of enterprise is so vast, the [illegible] which the pioneer spirit leaves [illegible] the parent civilization and the log cabin, bristle with such formidable imp[illegible] that native wealth can neither [illegible] all the one nor overcome a tithe of the other. Our pioneers with ax on [illegible] and spade in hand are, to be [illegible], the [illegible]ouriers of the painful [illegible] behind. But they travel far in ad[illegible] of the cumbersome munitions of [illegible]. The plow, the loom and the [illegible] tread a long and tedious [illegible] from the palace to the clearing. [illegible] whenever railways are to be [illegible], whenever any great internal im[illegible] are to be accomplished, the [illegible] spirit "blazes" a path through the wild[illegible] and then turns to the [illegible] "hierarchies" and "crumbling [illegible] of Europe for means wherewith [illegible] up the highway and make broad [illegible] whereon republican in[illegible] are to stand. From these sources [illegible] of Oregon has drawn [illegible] of support. And it must [illegible] of heartiest rejoicing to the [illegible] of Oregon and Washington Terri[illegible] [illegible]standing the odius light [illegible] the vicious management of that [illegible] has pl[illegible] us before the financiers [illegible], an earnest, intelligent and [illegible] resident of this coast [illegible] by unflagging zeal [illegible] dangerous obstacles and [illegible] men of Scotland with [illegible] in the integrity of the [illegible] in this far off land. When the diffi[illegible] which [illegible] Hon. A. G. Cook in his [illegible] are appreciated at their [illegible] we think the people of Oregon [illegible] Territory will concede [illegible] he is deserving [illegible] for his courage and [illegible]

[illegible]nces, we judge that the [illegible] Trust Investment [illegible] on a solid financial [illegible]. If Mr. Cook shall be enabled to [illegible] his grand enterprise, the day [illegible] will outstrip California [illegible] on this Western [illegible] in the near future. The capital[illegible] will never have cause to [illegible]. They have put their [illegible] it will do the most [illegible] money, but what is [illegible] we need Scotch industry. [illegible] of the thrifty muscle of [illegible] brawn and gold our [illegible] is accomplished.

[illegible] AND ITS IMPRISONED EDITOR.

[illegible] of the New York Tribune will re[illegible] able exposures which [illegible] in that paper several weeks [illegible], in which the corrupt management [illegible] of the Brooklyn Trust Company [illegible] thoroughly ventilated. It was [illegible] that President Ethelbert S. Mills, [illegible] Company, was not alone in the [illegible] of these frauds. City Treas[illegible] and his deputy, M. T. Rod[illegible] charged with being accom[illegible] was immediately arrested, [illegible] within the past month he and his su[illegible] have been arraigned on [illegible] of embezzlement, etc. As one of [illegible] of the Brooklyn Trust Company, Judge Alexander McCue did not [illegible]. In fact, taking the Tri[illegible] of the frauds, it was quite [illegible] to reconcile the theory of Judge [illegible] innocence with the ugly facts [illegible] he was intimate with all the princi[illegible] he had ample opportunity to [illegible] the frauds, so glaring were they, [illegible] his conduct in other matters— [illegible] as the Brooklyn Bridge Ring—laid [illegible] to suspicion. The Tribune crit[illegible] McCue unsparingly, and a few days [illegible] the grand jury met in Brooklyn, the District Attorney brought this [illegible] there, with the intention of [illegible] a presentment for libel against [illegible] Tribune. W. F. G. Shanks, city editor of [illegible] paper, was summoned before the [illegible] jury of the Brooklyn Court of Oyer [illegible] Terminer, and questioned as to the [illegible] of an article which appeared in the Tribune last August, entitled "The [illegible]lyn Ring's Method." He perempto[illegible] to divulge the name of the [illegible] whereupon District Attorney Britton applied to Judge Gilbert to compel him to answer. The N. Y. Herald of Oct. [illegible] the remainder of the narrative as follows:

> Mr. Britton said that he had inquired of Mr. [illegible] whether the latter would criminate [illegible]self by answering the question, and Mr. Shanks said he would not, but that he declined to answer on general principles. Mr. Britton contended that the law required witnesses before the Grand Jury to answer questions put to [illegible], and that the regulations of a newspaper office ought not to be sufficient to set the rule of law aside.
> Judge Gilbert addressed Mr. Shanks, saying [illegible] the law would not compel him to answer if it would criminate himself, but where only other parties would be criminated by his replies he was bound to answer. The Judge knew of no law which exempted a journalist from answering questions put to him by the Grand Jury, the only exceptions in such cases [illegible] clergymen, lawyers and doctors. Mr. Shanks would, therefore, have to answer the question.

This the spunky or recalcitrant editor again refused to do. He was committed to jail in contempt of court, and he is now lying there. He was taken out on a writ of habeas corpus, to testify in the Stokes case, and afterwards remanded.

The Tribune of the 22d justifies the refusal of Shanks to answer the questions of the District Attorney. It thinks that Judge McCue was less harmed by its criticisms than by his own conduct, and says: "Judge McCue is now seeking to regain some of his lost character, and has applied to the Grand Jury for it." Of the right of courts to inquire into the editorial management of journals, the Tribune takes this remarkable view.

> Yesterday District Attorney Britton devoted his best energies to endeavoring to force one of the subordinates of this office to disclose the authorship of editorial articles in the Tribune, but the witness showed his contempt for such proceedings by refusing to answer what we look upon as impertinent and unjustifiable questions. It is not the business of a Grand Jury to pry into our private concerns, or to indulge their curiosity about the writers of what we publish on our own responsibility. Neither is it their special province to lend themselves to the purposes of Judge McCue.

We say this view of the authority of courts and the rights of newspapers is remarkable, because it is very suggestive of a kind of moral cowardice of which it would be difficult to suspect a paper of such vast financial resources as the Tribune is reputed to possess. Shanks may have done, and he doubtless did do, right in declining to reveal the name of the author of the offending article; but if this be allowed, it is equally apparent that his superiors should have assumed the responsibility.

The Times reminds the Tribune that it (the Tribune) has always recommended the course which Judge Gilbert pursued. It says that when the publisher of the Times was summoned before a Grand Jury in reference to Tweed's case, the Tribune demanded his commitment. The Times recalls a reminiscence or two which contrast strikingly with the above quoted opinion from the Tribune. Elsewhere will be found the excerpt from the Times to which we allude.

TAKE YOUR CHOICE.

The grave-visaged pork and beans dreamer of the Bulletin, who puts his horrid nightmares on paper, grows more "cheeky" day by day. When he first spoke of "lashing" Prosecuting Attorney Durham to the prosecution and conviction of Bruce, the repeater, we supposed that it was only a rehearsal antic performed before the Custom House ring just to see how it would appear to the public. But since he keeps up his assortion, it becomes a matter of considerable unimportance to guess whether his exhibition is attributable to harmless "cheek" or depraved moral sense. Of course, it is well understood by the people of Oregon, that the Bulletin has persistently and maliciously abused the Prosecuting Attorney for doing his duty in causing the Grand Jury to present indictments against the repeaters who were bought on election day by the Bulletin (or Custom House for the terms are interchangeable) ring. Now the Bulletin assumes all credit for bringing about the conviction of young Bruce. We need go back no farther than Monday, October 27th, to find in that paper a sample of the style in which it urged on the prosecution of the illegal voters. It says:

> By this trifling with justice on the part of the Prosecuting Attorney the tax-payers of this county are made to bear the expense of the trials, and it is no light matter. And for what? To subserve the ends of justice? Not a bit of it. These suits were pressed by the Prosecuting Attorney in the interest of the ring of soreheads and perfidious Republicans, of which he is both tool and actor, and to put money in his own purse for conducting the prosecution.

"Cheek" or lying—which is it?

The Bulletin says, moreover, that Bruce voted the Democratic ticket. We can't admit the plea of cheek on that offense. It is pure, unadulterated, vicious lying. Bruce was bribed to vote for Hiram Smith. He has confessed to this, and the Bulletin knows it. Some of these days (and before long, too,) the public will hear the whole story as related by Bruce in his voluntary confession. It would have heard it long since but for this incident to the truth of which we are witness: when a prominent citizen was under examination in the trial of young Bruce, and when he was relating the repeater's confession as it was made to him in person, just as he reached that part in which Bruce told who had bribed him, he was suddenly checked by His Honor, Judge Upton, with: "You needn't tell the names of the persons who bribed him!" We do not say there was anything remarkable in this judicial interpellation. We have heard of such things before—on the vague authority of tradition among attorneys. But one thing we have never been able to understand: why this witness was not allowed to tell his story in full. Surely the course of justice could not have been impeded. Might it not, rather, have been facilitated. We are confident that the judicial ermine can never shield a criminal without taking on some stain. Why was the mouth of this witness closed? Tell us that, Mr. Bulletin. If you really desire the prosecution and conviction of all concerned in this nefarious business of buying and selling "the inestimable right" you will demand that the whole detective machinery of the Courts be brought in play to ferret out and bring to punishment the iniquitous scoundrels who plied this boy, Bruce, and his comrade with liquors until they were stupefied, and then placed in their hands the bribes, with the which in his hands he voted for Hiram Smith. If the whole truth were to be divulged, it might appear that after they drugged these boys with liquor they "rolled" them, stole the money with which the unfortunate fellows were bribed and appropriated it to their own use.

It looks as if the Bulletin would keep up the "damnable iteration" until it has persuaded itself to believe a lie.

A SOUND CHARGE.

We direct the especial attention of our readers to the charge of His Honor Judge Matthew P. Deady, to the Grand Jury of the United States District Court now in session in this city. It is a document which was very much needed just at this time. Mingled with its earnest patriotism there is a just indignation at the criminals who flaunt their pernicious briberies and corruptions in the very face of this community, and snap their fingers at the courts, when they are called to account for their heinous rascalities. If there were more Deadys on the bench, repeating and bribery would run a short and disgraceful course in Oregon. While the charge does the learned Judge honor, it reflects, at the same time, the sentiments of the best class of this community. We commend every line to the careful attention of our readers.

The Bulletin guesses that we received "the highly respectable stipend" of "four bits" for saying that "we confess to a higher respect for the ignorant wretches who were bought by the Custom House ring than for the mendacious journalist who would compromise with crime for the sake of a paltry salary." That is 12½ cents a line—more than any shrewd junk dealer would pay for a whole volume of the Bulletin's turgid falsehoods at a Custom House auction.

JUDGE DEADY'S CHARGE TO THE U. S. GRAND JURY.

The following is an extract from the charge delivered to the U. S. Grand Jury by Judge Deady, in the U. S. District Court, yesterday morning:

Gentlemen of the Jury: * * Since the discharge of the last Grand Jury that sat in this district an election has been held herein for a Representative in Congress.

It is publicly charged that numbers of persons voted at such election illegally, and that others aided, counseled, procured or advised such votes to be so given.

This being an election for an officer of the National government, Congress has the power to make such laws to secure a fair and honest vote as may be necessary and convenient. Con. U. S. Art. I. Sec. 4.

In pursuance of this power Congress enacted Sec. 19 of the act of May 30, 1870 (16 Stat. 144).

By this section it is provided—

"That if at any election for Representative or Delegate in the Congress of the United States any person shall knowingly—

(1.) Personate and vote, or attempt to vote, in the name of any other person, whether living, dead or fictitious,

(2.) Vote more than once at the same election for any candidate for the same office;

(3.) Vote at a place where he may not be lawfully entitled to vote;

(4.) Vote without having a lawful right to vote,

(5.) Do any unlawful act to secure a right or an opportunity to vote for himself or any other person,

(6.) By force, threat, menace, intimidation, bribery, reward, or offer, or promise thereof, or otherwise unlawfully prevent any qualified voter of any State of the United States of America, or any Territory thereof, from freely exercising the right of suffrage, or by any such means induce any voter to refuse to exercise such right,

(7.) Compel or induce by any such means (see clause 6) or otherwise, any officer of any election in any such State or Territory to receive a vote from any person not legally qualified or entitled to vote,

(8.) Interfere in any manner with any officer of said elections in the discharge of his duties;

(9.) By any of such means (see clause 6) or other unlawful means, induce any officer of an election, or officer whose duty it is to ascertain, announce, or declare the result of any such election, or give or make any certificate, document, or evidence in relation thereto, to violate or refuse to comply with his duty or any law regulating the same;

(10.) Knowingly and willfully receive the vote of any person not entitled to vote, or refuse to receive the vote of any person entitled to vote;

(11.) Aid, counsel, procure, or advise any such voter, person or officer to any act hereby made a crime or to omit or do any duty the omission of which is hereby made a crime or attempt to do so,

Every such person shall be deemed guilty of a crime, and shall for such crime be liable to prosecution in any court of the United States of competent jurisdiction, and, on conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $500, or by imprisonment for a term not exceeding three years, or both, in the discretion of the court, and shall pay the costs of the prosecution."

By section 21 of the same act, to vote or offer to vote a ballot at any election where a representative in Congress is to be chosen, is prima facie evidence that the person voted or attempted to vote for such representative. In this case, such would be the reasonable inference, in the absence of any such presumption of law, from the fact that no votes were authorized to be given or received for any other person than a candidate for representative.

The success of a Government based upon universal suffrage and frequent elections, presupposes that the elector will give his vote upon considerations of public policy and the fitness of the candidate for the office to be filled, and not otherwise.

When this condition of things ceases to be the rule and votes are given or withheld by reason of "force, threat, menace, intimidation, bribery, reward, or offer or promise thereof," the days of the Republic are numbered, and it will not be long ere it dies in its own stench.

A representative government, selected and sustained by the free and unpurchased votes of honest and intelligent citizens, is probably the most desirable state of civil society known to man; while on the other hand such a government, resting upon and reflecting the result of corrupt and dishonest elections, is an organized anarchy, more intolerable and unjust than any other. It is the triumph of vice over virtue—the means by which "evil men bear sway."

To preserve the purity of elections, and thereby secure the integrity of Congress, this law has been enacted. You have been chosen and sworn to inquire, among other things, if there has been any violation of it in this district. You cannot keep your oaths and neglect or overlook this duty. If you find that any one has voted more than once, or in the name of another, or at a place where he was not entitled to, or anywhere without having a lawful right to do so, it is your duty to present him for trial. And further, if you find that any one has aided, counseled, procured or advised any one to do any of these unlawful acts, it is your duty to present such person for trial. The persons who procure or aid others to vote illegally are generally the worse of the two, and always the most dangerous to society.

To bring a case within the 11th clause of this section as I have subdivided it, it is not necessary that the party should have hired or bribed another to vote illegally. It is equally a crime to counsel or advise the commission of such an act, or in any way to procure or aid it to be done.

But illegal votes are seldom given intentionally without a money consideration or its equivalent being at the bottom of the transaction.

The use of money in elections—particularly in the large towns and cities—is fast becoming a dangerous evil. If not prevented, our elections will in effect soon become what the election for an Emperor was in the decline of Rome—a sale of the Empire by the mercenaries of the Pretorian Guard to the highest bidder.

The use of money in elections, besides being in nine cases out of ten radically wrong and corrupt, imposes in the end a heavy and unjust tax upon the property and industry of the country.

By one indirection and another, through the acts and influences of those who are elected by this money, the public are compelled to return it with interest—often an hundred fold—to the persons who furnished it.

It may be said that this evil is confined to a few great cities where ignorance, poverty and vice are used and abused for political purposes by rapacious and unscrupulous wealth.

But, judging from the statements of the press and the common speech of men, there is ground to believe that for some years past the elections in portions of this State, and particularly in this city, have been materially influenced if not actually controlled by the use of money, expended to promote and produce illegal and dishonest voting. So late as the last session of the Legislature, a distinguished member of that body was reported as saying on the floor of the House, that elections in Portland were controlled by the purchased votes of a rabble who could be bought at $2 per head.

You, gentlemen, are supposed to represent the honest law abiding portion of the community, who only desire that elections should be what the founders of the commonwealth intended—an authorized process of ascertaining the unbiased and honest opinion of the voters in relation to public men and measures.

To this end, this law has been enacted by Congress, and you are called here to aid in its enforcement by presenting all persons for trial whom you may find to have violated it.

Present no person through envy, hatred or malice. Weigh well the evidence produced before you. Do not allow yourselves to be made the means of accusing the innocent or setting on foot a public prosecution in aid of one side or the other of a mere political or personal controversy.

Neither should you leave any person unpresented through fear, favor or affection. You should be vigilant and patient in your enquiries and let no man escape a trial who is shown to have voted illegally, or counseled or procured another to do so. Do justly,—let the consequences be what they may, and you have discharged your duty.

MARRIED.

In this city, Oct. 27, by R. W. Ryan, Justice of the Peace, Samuel Rolfe to Mrs. Indie Sexton, both of Multnomah county, Oregon.

TUESDAY MORNING NOVEMBER 4 1873

CITY.

SEWER COMPLETED —At present writing, the main pipe of the Stark street sewer has at length been laid and all the connections effected The sewer extends from the water's edge at the foot of Stark street to a point along that street 75 feet west of Fifth The entire length of the sewer is about 1,675 feet All the catch pans at the intersection of the streets have not yet been finished and the pipes connecting them with the main conduit laid In a few days more everything connected with this much talked of and written about sewer will be finished Then the rains can descend and the floods come so that the public can have a fair opportunity to determine whether or not the sewer will be adequate to meet all the requirements for which it was constructed—the complete and speedy drainage of Stark and portions of intersecting streets Grave doubts have been expressed by some as to the practicability of the tile sewer A few weeks hence and all will be able to know the result—its partial or entire feasibility or failure

ARM TORN—AMPUTATED —An old gentleman named Moore employed at Smith's mill in the upper portion of the city had his right arm caught in a circular saw yesterday morning about 10 o'clock The limb was literally torn to shreds from the fingers to within a few inches of the elbow joint The mangled limb bled very profusely until the arrival of a surgeon about 20 minutes after the accident Amputation was found unavoidable the operation being skillfully performed by Dr Alfred Kinney assisted by Dr Wm B Cardwell The patient stood the operation very well although he is 71 years old and has not a great amount of vitality He is now armless, having been deprived of his left arm years ago in a similar manner while engaged in a sawmill in Louisiana. His family reside near Eugene City

B STREET EXTENSION —At length the—we might almost say stupendous labor and great expense of prosecuting to completion the B street extension, west of King's creek, is nearly at a close However, a portion of the work cannot be finished entirely the present winter Portions of the plank roadway have and will not be nailed down to the cross timbers until next spring The embankment, on which the roadway reposes, will be more or less affected by the heavy and protracted rains that descend during the winter months Loose earth when exposed to such agencies must settle and to spike down the plank this fall would be so much unnecessary work which would require to be done over the following spring All the work that is proposed this winter will be finished the present week

CHINAMAN HURT —The evening cotemporary says This morning a very painful accident happened to a Chinese wood sawyer on Third street Two of these Celestials were busily at work sawing a pile of cord wood One of them was hard at work near the pile, while the other was pulling it down so as to get at it. From some cause a large portion of the pile toppled over, striking the Chinaman, crushing him to the ground He was immediately extricated and carried away to some rookery, where he will probably receive Chinese medical attendance. As to any bones being broken we could not learn, but his body and limbs were considerably torn and bruised.

MISSING MAN —About three weeks ago an elderly man named Thomas Redding who resided on the Columbia river nearly opposite Oak Point, came to this city and thence to Oregon City, where he had some business with the Land Office He returned to Portland on Friday the 17th ult., and when last seen he was crossing Stark street, going in the direction of the O S N Co's wharf, where he was to take the boat for home As he has not returned to his family it is thought some accident may have happened to him He has a large farm at the point above mentioned, and his family feel somewhat alarmed concerning his absence so long a time.

INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS —At a regular meeting of Cleanthe Grove No 4 U A O D, held last evening, the D D G A Le F A Shaw, assisted by P A's W H Utter, M Ball, H. Bohlman, G. Nie[illegible], W S Stevens A. Campbell and G W Hillman installed the following to their respective stations Geo L DePrans, N A, H D Chapman V A L F A Shaw, P A, R. and F. S, J Farrow, I G E. C Brigham Treas John J Curry, Conductor; W S Stevens, P A, R H B N A, G W Johnson, L H B N A, Paul Richter, R H B V A, J H Brenner L H B V A, U Warnekros O G

CAUGHT THE JARGON —A young man connected with a down town store, where the "staff of life" is sold in considerable quantities, has acquired a pretty fair knowledge of the Chinese language, and can converse freely with the numerous sons and daughters from the Flowery Kingdom, who are very much amused to hear a "Melican man" speak Chinese fluently The establishment has as may be supposed a large run of customers of this class, and they are cash ones at that too consequently the young man's services are valued highly

THE IVANHOE.—The schooner Ivanhoe was expected at Coos Bay on last Saturday to load with coal from the Newport Coal Mine (Flanagan & Mann) for the Portland market It is being sent here with the expectation of being introduced for domestic consumption and Mr S S. Mann is now here for that purpose The vessel will bring from 160 to 170 tons The Ivanhoe will take a return cargo of flour and produce to San Francisco for the Salem Mills

BISHOP MORRIS APPOINTMENTS —During the month of November the following are the appointments of Bishop Morris Saturday, 8th, LaGrande laying corner stone Sunday, 9th, LaGrande, confirmation Monday, 10th, evening Cove, Tuesday 11th, 2 P M Cove confirmation Thursday 13th, 2 P M, Union confirmation Saturday 15th Baker City Sunday 16th Baker City Sunday 23d Walla Walla

COURT MARTIAL FINDINGS —The court martial which was held a short time since at Fort Lapwai by order of General Davis for the trial of several soldiers charged with desertion has concluded its labors The findings of the court were received a few days since and are now in General Davis possession He will inspect them and, if found satisfactory will be approved and the sentences carried into effect

FRAME UP —Work on the new wharf and warehouse of Messrs Barnard & Griswold just below the railroad ferry landing is being pushed rapidly forward Already the frame for the second story has been raised The roof and siding will soon follow Within a month's time the building will be ready for use if lumber can be procured in sufficient quantities

TIME EXTENDED —Gen Robert Granger left here some time ago for a visit East At the time of his departure he was granted a leave of absence of one month Since leaving his furlough has been extended [illegible] months, making his total leave of absence six months He will return here next April

MUSIC FURNISHED —Wm K Bulger is prepared to furnish the best music for balls, parties and private entertainments at the lowest rates with any number of pieces All orders left at [illegible] music store will be faithfully attended to Headquarters of Bruce's Quadrille band 117 [illegible] street

GUSSIE TELFAIR —This steamer arrived here on Sunday morning from Victoria and ports along the Sound She brought a few skins, 57 bales of hops and 2[illegible] of coal No passengers were brought over At present the steamer is discharging coal at the Gas Company's wharf

BARK [illegible] —This bark finished discharging ballast yesterday morning at the Gas Company's dock She was taken in tow at once by the Senator and brought up to Carter's wharf at the foot of Alder street where a cargo of wheat will be taken on board

STEAM RAISED —The new tug boat Sedalia is completed. Steam was raised on board for the first time [illegible] day Everything worked [illegible]. The hull and boiler will undergo [illegible] after which the tug will be ready for [illegible]

SOIREE DANSANTE —The grand event of the season is that announced to take place at the Progress Club Rooms this evening The affair is gotten up as a compliment to Mr Isaac White a prominent member of the club who is shortly to visit the Eastern States From the preparations already made we have every reason to believe that the festive occasion above referred to will exceed anything of the kind ever held in this city The rooms are elegant and all that can render convenience is fully considered by those having immediate charge of the affair The ladies have been on tip toe for the past month in anticipation of a most enjoyable time and we are sure their expectations will be fully realized

FIRE CISTERNS —Although work has been in progress for some time on the two fire cisterns at the corner of Morrison and Lownsdale and Seventh and Oak streets neither are yet finished The cistern at the corner of Morrison and Lownsdale streets is to be constructed of brick entirely and the one at the intersection of Oak and Seventh will be constructed by plastering, hydraulic cement against the sides The bottom will be built of brick

AMOUNT IN THE TREASURY —According to the report of the present City Treasurer of East Portland the following amounts were in the Treasury on the 1st of November Street Repair Fund $3 25 Street Improvement Fund $49 02 General Fund $1 241 42 total in the Treasury $1 298 69

QUESTION FOR DEBATE —The following is the question for discussion at the next meeting of the East Portland Debating Society Resolved That the tendency of the fashions customs and education of the present century in this main is to enervate both body and mind

MORE VESSELS —We learn from a San Francisco exchange that two more vessels are on the way from that port bound for Portland to carry to Europe a load of grain These vessels are the Akbar of 906 tons burden, and the Cutwater, of 986 tons burden

RESUMMONED —The grand jury in the Circuit Court have been resummoned and will convene to-day at 1 o'clock The object of this will be to enable the jury to investigate several criminal cases which would otherwise go over to the next term

LAYING TILE —The work of tunneling under Front street from the river to the new Bank of British Columbia, is rapidly approaching completion Tile is being laid along the tunnel from the edge of the water towards the new building

STEAMERS EXPECTED —The steamer Ajax will be due here from San Francisco and may be expected this evening Steamer California from Sitka and way ports, will be due the last of the present week

FOR THE SOUND —One hundred head of beef cattle were forwarded to Kalama last Saturday From there they will be driven to Victoria to supply the meat markets

LADIES RELIEF SOCIETY —The usual meeting of the Ladies Relief Society will take place to-day at 2 o'clock

BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

The Board of Trustees of East Portland met last evening at 7 o'clock

Members present—Buckman Hoyt Pape Severson and Stephens President VanCleave in the Chair

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and approved

PETITIONS ETC

A petition was read from J W Clayton asking for the privilege of moving a house from the corner of B and Fourth to the corner of I and Water streets Petition granted

The Auditor gave notice that he had received a communication from J H Curry who had instituted a suit against the city for the recovery of a claim of $60 which he claimed to have earned in attendance on Mr Taylor during the time he was sick with the smallpox The communication was referred to the City Attorney with instructions to defend the suit

REPORTS

A report was read from the Committee on Streets and Public Property to whom had been referred the matter of constructing a ferry slip at the foot of I street The Committee recommended the same to be referred back and indefinitely postponed

The Street Commissioner submitted his report in relation to the collection of special street tax The total amount he had collected was $62 and his costs for collecting the same was $260 The report was referred to the Committee on Streets and Public Property

The quarterly report of the late City Treasurer Kirk Sheldon, was read and referred to the Committee on Accounts and Current Expenses

The report of the present City Treasurer W S Corlen was also read and referred to the same committee

The quarterly report of the Auditor and Clerk was also read and referred to the Committee on Accounts and Current Expenses

CLAIMS

The following claims against the city were audited and warrants ordered drawn in favor of the same Kirk H Sheldon $75 J W Clayton $3 N H Lane $15 N Clinton $50, W W Thayer $75 J A Newell, $75, J W Clayton $50

ORDINANCES

An ordinance in relation to the planting and protection of ornamental shade trees came up on its third reading but was referred to the Committee on Streets and Public Property

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Mr Severson moved that the Board proceed to the election of a Street Commissioner and City Marshal The motion prevailed

The President stated that unless the names of those candidates who were balloted on two weeks previous were withdrawn the same persons would still be before the Board The names of those proposed at the last meeting of the Board for the office of City Marshal were Messrs John Proudfit J W Clayton F R Neale and Isaac Sanders

The President appointed as tellers Messrs Hoyt and Severson

After balloting vainly for some time for Clayton Neale and Sanders Mr Hoyt moved, on the seventh ballot that the Board adjourn However when the motion was put it was lost

At the close of the 14th ballot, with still no prospect of electing a City Marshal Mr Stephens moved to adjourn but the Board refused to do so

When the 22d ballot was cast, and still no choice the President suggested that the Board had better adjourn

Mr Severson then moved that the Board postpone further balloting for City Marshal until the next regular meeting The motion prevailed

It was next moved and carried that the Board proceed to the election of Street Commissioner

The names of Wm Kearns and N Clinton were placed in nomination

Four ballots were cast without deciding the question as to who should be Street Commissioner for the ensuing year, when it was moved and carried that further balloting be deferred until the next meeting

On motion the Board adjourned until the 17th inst

EUGENE CITY ITEMS.

Quite a number of attorneys from abroad are in the city to attend the term of the Circuit Court which sits this morning

Sheriff Poindexter returned from Southern Oregon last Friday having in custody Charles G Dickson arrested on a charge of stealing from the dwelling of J J Blair near Eugene The accused was arrested in Jackson county and was making good time toward California A preliminary examination was had before Justice Brown and Dickson was bound over in the sum of five hundred dollars to await the action of the grand jury Failing to procure sureties he was sent to jail

James Bristow met with a very terrible accident to day falling from the third to the first floor of the University building a distance of nearly fifty feet A block and tackle had been rigged for hoisting material into the third story Bristow noticing the rope hanging from the roof and supposing it to be secured took hold of it and attempted to swing across the opening in the floor The rope immediately commenced paying out precipitating him to the ground The resistance of the rope running through the blocks must have greatly lessened the force of his fall else instant death would seem to have been inevitable As it is he is very badly bruised but no bones are broken and his injuries are thought not to be dangerous

MARY AND I.

'Twas evening in May, and the soft zephyr sighed
Through branches low bending above
My Mary and I, as we wandered along
And whisper'd of beauty and love
"We'll make us a nest like the birdlings, I said
And never shall part any more
Oh yes she replied and can furnish it nice
At BURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE.

Fair creature, there's many a wealthier man
Would gladly have you for a bride
But no one can love you more fondly than I—
My treasure, my beauty and pride
Oh had I a mansion with carpets of gold
And silver I'd cover the floor
But smiling she said You can purchase the best
At BURGREN & SHINDLER'S STORE

I'll spread you a couch upon which to recline
When evening shall call us to rest,
Of the deepest down — but she said with a sigh
I like a hair mattress the best
"Then so it shall be Love and tables inlaid
And seats from some far distant shore

TUESDAY MORNING NOVEMBER 4 1873

A GRIZZLY PRIZE FIGHT

THE WONDERFUL MAN OF STEEL OF PIKE'S PEAK

General James S. Brisbin gives the following sketch of the exploits of a noted frontiersman. The incidents were related to the General by Belden the famous hunter trapper and guide of the plains

I was one of the first men in 1858 to arrive at Pike's Peak. I came up from the Missouri with a friend of my father's and we stopped at Denver or rather I should say where Denver now is for the city was then composed of a few grog shops and shanties. In one of the mining camps I became acquainted with a queer fellow called Bruiser Sam. He was a powerful man and sometimes drank a good deal, but was always good tempered and kind hearted. The miners were a rough set in those days, and delighted in the most brutal of sports. Prize fighting was one of their pastimes and at this Bruiser Sam excelled, no man in all the camps being able to stand up long before him. His feats of strength were prodigious. Often would he take a barrel of whisky by the chimes, and knocking out the bung lift it up and drink from the hole as easily as if it were a small keg. Then he would stand on a box twelve inches high and lift 180 pounds with his teeth. He could pick up a three bushel bag of flour with his mouth and carry it a rod. One day a saloon keeper offended Sam and to have revenge, he went out into the street and shouldering a [illegible] work horse, carried it into the saloon, leaving the enraged barkeeper to get it out and down the steps as best he could. At another time he carried a rock into the store and dropped it through the floor.

A HERCULES

Sam's skin was as white and smooth as a girl's but all over his arms, shoulders and broad chest were bunches of knotty muscles as large as one's fist. He was a well built and fine looking man, his waist being remarkably small, his hips broad, the legs well set and feet small. Once his face was handsome, but whisky had bleared the eyes and the nose was [illegible] and red, still Sam was a good-looking [illegible], and when [illegible] up in a new buckskin suit, [illegible], and his long brown hair combed out in curls about his neck, he was a picture of an athletic frontiersman.

However, Sam was fast degenerating into a [illegible], he had left off work and gone to living by his [illegible] just as those [illegible] of men live by their wits in the great cities. Any one would pay Sam's liquor to see him lift a barrel by the ends and drink from the bunghole and occasionally, by way of variety, he would shoulder a horse or a mule for a glass of rum. D[illegible] passed on rapidly on "The man of [illegible]" as he was called, and when I saw him in the spring he had delirium tremens and it took five men to hold him. His frame was [illegible] away, the knots of sinews were [illegible], his [illegible] drawn in and the skin of his body soft.

A BOUT WITH A PRIZE-FIGHTER.

It was about this time an old Englishman named Jones arrived at the mines and hearing of Sam, expressed a desire to see him. Old Jim was a well-known prize-fighter but of late [illegible] had given up the ring himself and [illegible]. Sam's fame excited the envy of old Jones, and he no sooner saw him than he [illegible] to fight Sam. So the day was set. [illegible] was sick on the morning of the fight and [illegible] badly [illegible], but bets ran two to one on "The Man of Steel," against the Englishman. Time was called, and the Englishman [illegible] into the ring, while Sam came up [illegible], and looked languid and feeble, but at the [illegible] first [illegible] he hit John Bull between the [illegible] [illegible] out of sponging and bathing [illegible] induce him to stand upon his legs [illegible] that day. [illegible] and Sam had broken [illegible] skull, but he got about in a [illegible] of two, and soon afterward both he and [illegible] from the saloons. The bar-[illegible] Sam did not come [illegible] any more for his grog, and no one [illegible] he had gone, or what he [illegible]. Foul play was beginning to be suspected [illegible] it leaked out that Sam was in [illegible] and that the English [illegible] was his [illegible] old Jones got that awful lick [illegible] fist, he gave him no peace [illegible] into training and accompany [illegible] man to England, there to [illegible] of the prize-ring. Jones had [illegible] but at his instigation a man [illegible] over with plenty of cash, [illegible] them arrived old Jones quit, [illegible] became Sam's regular [illegible].

A SICK MAN TO TRAIN.

[illegible] while he was in training, [illegible] the knots were on his arms [illegible] round and firm. He [illegible] at his dumb bells, sand-bags, and [illegible] when, one morning [illegible] something, knocked both [illegible] and old Jones down, and made his [illegible] into the street. Stopping [illegible] and taking several drinks he did not [illegible] his hour for training, and [illegible] by knocking down every stout [illegible] fellow he met. Finally, after the [illegible] and half the town had been whipped, [illegible] was [illegible] and put into jail, but here [illegible] difficulty presented itself, for the jail [illegible] not a strong one, and Sam swore he would [illegible] tear it down if they did not let him [illegible]. On promising that he would go straight to his lodgings, the door was opened and Sam [illegible] his word, for he went directly home and [illegible] to bed. This outbreak was so unlike [illegible] disposition that every one was at a loss to account for it, and soon after an [illegible] ebullition occurring, The Man of Steel [illegible] abandoned him in disgust, and took [illegible] lves off East, each carrying with him, as a parting gift from Sam, a pair of black eyes and a swollen nose.

[illegible], now left to himself fell to drinking, [illegible] went about the saloons as of old, lifting [illegible], pitching stones and shouldering [illegible] for liquor. It was soon observed he was growing weak, he lifted the barrels with [illegible] difficulty, and preferred to drink from a glass. [illegible] of a [illegible] He grew thin in flesh [illegible] disappeared, and he became the [illegible] low of his former self.

GOING FOR A GRIZZLY BEAR

At this [illegible] a number of shoulder hitters and [illegible] arrived at the mines, and gave [illegible] trouble, but he finally conquered [illegible] all, and as the last fellow got licked he [illegible] "Well if you can lick me you can't lick a grizzly bear!" Sam swore he could lick a grizzly bear, and that single-handed [illegible], he would fight one. There was a grizzly in the camp that had been caught by the [illegible] when a cub, and raised by them. The bear was now nearly full grown and although a [illegible], powerful brute, was quite tame and harmless. It was not long before some wretches had arranged a fight between the dumb brute and Bruiser Sam and the day was set. The bear was to be chained to a tree by the neck, and Sam was to fight him for one hour with his naked fists. Sam again went into training, with Jim Peyton for his trainer and long before the day of the fight Peyton reported that his pupil was in splendid condition, and "would as soon fight as go a fishing."

The day came, and with it a great crowd. The bets were three to one on Sam and many really believed he would whip the bear. Poor Bruin—a great, shaggy coated fellow—was tied to a stake by a chain twelve feet long, and was as good-tempered as he could be standing on his hind legs, and scampering about with delight at the sight of so many people. Perhaps there was as little of the real beast in Bruin as there was in many of the two-legged animals who came to see the fight. The keepers of the bear began teasing and poking him with sharp poles and irons, and although he took it quite coolly at first, he after a while growled fiercely and tugged at his chain. Sam now appeared with his keeper Peyton and was received with loud cheers by the human animals who wished to see a man and a beast fight.

THE FIGHT

Stepping into the ring Sam prepared for battle, stripping off all his clothing except his boots pants and drawers. His broad chest contrasted strangely with the shaggy coat of the beast as the two combatants stood glaring at each other. The intelligent animal seemed to understand the situation in a moment and raising on his legs walked towards Sam who tried to hit him between the eyes hoping to break his skull but failing in this he stepped to one side, giving the bear a powerful blow knocking him down. Cheer after cheer greeted Sam as he stepped from the ring and the men who bet on the bear really began to fear that they would lose their money. Five minutes were allowed between the rounds and the baiters poked the beast vigorously all the time, so that when Sam came up again he was in a towering passion.

The moment Sam [illegible] the ring the bear recognized him and bounded the full length of the chain. So great was the rage of the beast that the people drew back in horror, and even Sam grew pale. Again the bear leaped forward and taking his chain in his paws attempted to break it. For a time it resisted all his efforts, but at length it snapped in twain and the affrighted people fled terror stricken from the plain.

THE END

The bear dashed upon Sam, who bravely stood his ground and actually succeeded in felling the beast to the earth, but in doing so lost his balance and before he could rise the bear caught him with one paw and putting him on the face with the other broke the [illegible]. Still Sam fought on with his jaw hanging upon his breast and blood spurting from a dozen wounds. It was terrible but of course the bear was knocking Sam down finally and tearing open his chest with its sharp paws. By this time the people had got guns and returned to the field where they first riddled the bear [illegible] with bullets and then [illegible] up [illegible] and the carcass of the bear and buried them both. And thus ended Bruiser Sam and his grizzly bear fight, which was perhaps the only prize bear fight ever fought in the world.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Many financial writers are now beginning to find out that the late money panic was the most needless of any in the history of the country. Still the effects are not checked and the disturbance of business goes on new victims of the disaster laid out on every hand. We incline to the belief that no sufficient cause has yet been clearly shown for such a wide spread result. The people of our country were scarcely ever before so independent or the banking institutions so strong. There was never so much money in the country and we never before possessed so large a surplus of those agricultural products that other nations require and must have. An exchange sets forth the strength of the country and presents the many reasons we have for courage and cheerfulness in terms so forcible as to put to shame or ought to put to shame all who have been so ready to surrender at the first note of alarm from Wall street. It says what no intelligent man will deny, that with all this derangement of values and stoppage of circulation since the panic began the country is actually richer than it has been since the war began its work of destruction. Our cotton crop is larger by nearly a million of bales than it was last year. This means that we have that enormous amount of material for the settlement of our accounts with the Old World. Independent of all other causes, this alone ought to keep the balance of trade for the next twelve months very largely in our favor, and prevent the export of gold.

Our Wheat crop is very large and the demand for it abroad exceeds that known during any previous year. Great Britain alone needs at least 90 000 000 bushels of wheat—of which we shall have to furnish the larger proportion as the Russian and German supplies are short and France demands over 40,000,000 bushels. Already our shipments are enormous and they are stopped by the present practical dead lock. For instance the shipments of Wheat from Chicago last week were 690,687 bushels. The shipments of Wheat from Milwaukee last week were 711,594 bushels. From the latter port the shipments of Wheat for the year up to Saturday were 17,068,422 bushels against 6,832,220 bushels for the same period last year. These latter figures tell the whole story.

Already our strong position as regards the holding of the stuff that the world needs and must pay for is shown by the very large shipments of Gold from England that have been made since our troubles began. It is true there are secondary causes for this, but unless we had been so strong in actual resources the extraordinary flow of Gold this way would not have been witnessed.

The Hop Market.

Fromet Wells' Weekly Circular of October 23d says concerning this crop

The market is weak. Prices, though not quotably lower, are irregular and unsettled. Quite a combination of causes tend to make trade dull, and the market depressed. One is the stringency in money. It takes a great deal of money to handle Hops at the present high prices. With high rates of interest, and a very [illegible] tiled state of finance generally operators do not feel free to extend the usual credit, preferring small transactions on short time, or a cash basis all of which curtails business. Thousands of mechanics and laborers have recently been thrown out of employment—one of the results of the late financial panic, with a hard winter staring them in the face and little or no prospect of getting anything to do the loose change they have been in the habit of spending for beer will now be saved for the necessaries of life. Many of our heavy lager beer brewers are running on short time, anticipating dull times ahead they are stocking their cellars with much less beer than usual at this time of the year. With patent ice houses they can now brew at all seasons, according to the demands of their trade. Malt is high—higher than it has been for a long time past and many brewers have already advanced the price of their beer a dollar a barrel in consequence.

The Hog Product.

The customary circular of H Milward & Co of Chicago giving information relative to the hog crop has reached us. Their returns are from 241 points and cover a larger area of country than is included in their reports heretofore. The following is a summary of the returns.

	More	Fewer	About same	Total
Illinois	1	8	27	37
Kansas	3	1	6	10
Iowa	11	27	21	59
Indiana	1	11	7	[illegible]
Missouri		12	8	23
Ohio	4	8	15	27
Nebraska		1	1	1
	36	118	87	241

The circular adds. The above figures do not quite corroborate the reports to the Agricultural Department at Washington which shows an increase of 1½ per cent. * * * The receipts of Hogs at this point from the 1st of January to the 1st of October were 2,729,96[illegible] against 1,36[illegible] 241 same time last year—an excess of 593,721 head. The receipts from March 1st (the close of the packing season) to October 1st were 1,789,957 shipments 1,439,106. Receipts for same time in 1872 were 1,505,071 shipments, 1,259,713. * * * Notwithstanding the reported scarcity of Hogs in Ireland the tone of our advices from Great Britain indicate that American products will not go largely into consumption except at figures corresponding with or even lower than the prices current last year.

Exports of Wheat.

The San Francisco Chronicle has the following table showing the exports of Flour and Wheat from the United States to Great Britain and Ireland since September 1 1873

From	Flour bbls	Wheat bush
New York Oct. 11	108,[illegible]	[illegible]
New Orleans Oct 8	3,000
Philadelphia Oct 11	[illegible]	[illegible]
Baltimore Oct 11	871	44,091
Boston Oct 11	13,[illegible]	[illegible]
San Francisco Oct [illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Portland (O) Oct [illegible]	1,[illegible]	[illegible]

Since that time up to this date there have been sent from this port for the same destination about 108,000 bushels of wheat and 3,400 barrels of flour. For the ten days prior to October 30 the arrivals of Oregon Wheat at San Francisco amounted to nearly [illegible] 000 centals as follows: Webfoot 11,800 [illegible] Superior [illegible] Orient 8,987 J L Stephens [illegible] Ilera 10,818 Rival 11,000 Margaret Crockard [illegible] Windward 17,600.

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—There is considerable more inquiry than was heard last week and though exporters seem disinclined to advance prices above $1 85 for small lots at which they are purchasing, some there are reasons to believe that better figures could be had for round lots. The several vessels now in port will almost deplete the stocks on hand.

FLOUR—We note no very large supplies on hand the export demand consuming the product of our State mills except barely enough to satisfy the requirements of the home trade. Agents here are holding firmer at $6 ℔ bbl for standard brands. Extras $5 [illegible] for best country and other brands $4 [illegible] according to quality.

OATS—The market presents no unusual feature a fair local trade existing but no extraordinary demand for export. Quotations are furnished at [illegible] ℔ bushel with receipts light.

BARLEY—The demand is quite steady at $1 [illegible] ℔ 100 to supply home wants while for [illegible] are more spasmodic according to the supply [illegible] of means of transportation.

FEED—We quote Bran to-day [illegible] at $1 [illegible] ℔ ton. Chopped Middling [illegible] Shorts $[illegible]. The demand is active and the supply limited.

HAY—The receipts are not more than equal to the present local demand and prices are inclined to advance. We quote choice baled timothy at $1 [illegible] ℔ ton. Loose do $16@17.

POTATOES—The adjacent farms supply our market most abundantly at a low figure, quotations being furnished at 35@40 cents ℔ bushel.

ONIONS—There are considerable lots in market but prices remain dull at 1½@2 cents ℔ ℔.

APPLES—The supply is large and some shipments to San Francisco have been disposed of to a good advantage. We quote at 40@50 cents ℔ box.

BUTTER—We note a diminished supply and firm demand for choice lots, quotations being 25@30 cents ℔ ℔ for best dairy for table use, common at 15@22 cents.

CHEESE—The market is liberally supplied at 16@17 cents ℔ ℔.

BACON—A very fair demand continues for good lots of hams and shoulders while sides are in better supply at current rates.

EGGS—The quotations given are 45c ℔ doz with a fair call from the local trade and but little demand for shipping.

POULTRY—We note but little activity in the market and prices are nominal at the figures last given.

HIDES—Market active at 6@7c for green salted and 11@13 for dry.

WOOL—There is nothing of importance to note. Buyers for export being rather more backward in their offers while our [illegible] manufacturers still purchase at 24@25c ℔ ℔ for best quality and 18@20c for common lots.

Shipping Intelligence.

The [illegible] Superior [illegible] chartered [illegible] to [illegible] for [illegible] and the [illegible] for 98 00.

The steamer [illegible] is chartered to sail [illegible] for [illegible] from [illegible].

In addition to the vessels heretofore mentioned we note also the charter of the David Brown, Akbar and Coltwater to San Francisco to load wheat at this port. These vessels are chartered to register each and may be expected here within three weeks.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES! NEW REMEDIES!

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854 for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness Impotency etc. Skin [illegible] (of years standing) and [illegible] Legs successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe and has resumed practice at his Dispensary 623 Kearney street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Dis[illegible]

How many thousands of persons, both male and female are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at the pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible, life-destroying maladies, see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to DR GIBBON a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate [illegible] without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who in [illegible] all cities publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make [illegible] inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of charlatans.

Seminal We[illegible]

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms unless combatted by scientific medical means, viz. Sallow countenance dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head ringing in the ears noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, une[illegible] about the loins, weakness of the limbs, conf[illegible] blunted intellect, loss of confidence diffidence in approaching strangers a dislike to form new acquaintances disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes pimples and various [illegible] tions about the face, furred tongue, fetid [illegible] coughs, consumption, night sweats monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained [illegible] apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific [illegible] of treating this disease, which never fails of [illegible] ing a quick and radical cure. Dr G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will [illegible] satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this [illegible] plaint by either of the San Francisco [illegible].

Ma[illegible]

Or those who contemplate ma[illegible] who are [illegible] ing under any of these fearful [illegible] not forget the sacred responsibility [illegible] nor delay to obtain im[illegible] relief.

DR. GIBBON is [illegible] able, and will give to patient a written [illegible] binding [illegible] to effect a radical and permanent cure, or [illegible] charge.

Cured at H[illegible]

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating symptoms, length of time the [illegible] has [illegible] and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the [illegible] with full and plain directions. By inclosing Ten Dollars coin, in registered letter through the Post office or through Wells, Fargo & Co, a [illegible] medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union. All communications strictly con[illegible].

Caution to the Unf[illegible]

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn to [illegible] the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors' names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places [illegible] tradesmen and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, news [illegible] carriers intelligence office keepers, etc. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing and may save you many [illegible] for as advertising physicians in eight [illegible] out of ten are bogus there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles certificates pretended patients' letters, etc. Dr Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he prof[illegible] to cure.

Address DR. J F GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial San Francisco, Postoffice Box 1,957.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER. Consultations FREE.
